

JIMMIE HALEY BOOSTED AT THE WRONG MOMENT

J. F. Haley, state bullion and tax collector, arrived from Reno yesterday and was kept busy the entire day greeting old friends and making new ones. One of Jimmie's strong points is Reno, and it is impossible for him to keep from alluding to that city no matter what the subject of the conversation may be. All of his historical data dates from the building of the big bridge over the Truckee in that city and he has written several poems on the beautiful scenery along the banks of the Truckee. It is his intention to publish these gems in a booklet form which he will present to his friends. Poor friends!

Yesterday afternoon, at the Nevada Club, Jimmie was explaining the benefits of residing in Reno, and after finishing a lengthy description of the beauties of that city he related to silent meditation while one of the party was discussing the advantages of residing in Tonopah.

A member of the party, noticing Jimmie's unusual quietness, and thinking that he was tired from his long journey from the north, said:

"Where are you registered, Jimmie" (referring to the hotel)?

"Reno," came the startling response from the tax collector, and when the laugh was over it cost James just $1.15 for boosting Reno at the wrong time.

CHECK CASE IN COURT THURSDAY

The case of the Robert Johnson and Rand Shoe company vs. H. A. McKim was tried in the district court yesterday and given to the jury shortly after 4 o'clock. The case involves two checks of the State Bank and Trust company for $153 and $190.20, which the defendant states the company agreed to take after being notified of the closing of that bank.

McIntosh and Cooke represented the plaintiff and James F. Dennis represented the defendant.

The jury after being out an hour brought in a verdict on two counts. The first count awarded $153 to the defendant and the second awarded $190.20 to the plaintiffs.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE FOR THE GOLDFIELD MINERS

George Wingfield and wife, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Sadler, arrived in Tonopah yesterday from Reno. They were on their way to Goldfield. They will spend about a week in the southern city, where Mr. Wingfield has business matters requiring his attention. He spent only a few minutes here and had nothing to give out regarding the plans of the Consolidated.

"I have no special explanation to give of the rise in Consolidated," said Wingfield. "The property has reached such a stage of development that but little attention is given to the market quotations of the security. The work of getting the plant in readiness for operation is progressing rapidly and I see no reason why everything should not be running on schedule time."

In regard to the report that the Consolidated was to open company stores at Goldfield, Wingfield stated that he knew nothing of such a plan and would not confirm the report beyond stating that employees of the mines were arranging to open a store on a co-operative profit sharing plan.

ASSEMBLY DANCE OCCURS TONIGHT

This is the night for one of the series of Assembly dances, and the affair promises to be well patronized. The Assembly dances have made a name for themselves in Tonopah, and those who are fortunate enough to hold invitations to these affairs seldom miss one of them. The dance of tonight will prove no exception to the general rule.

I. G. LEWIS GOES TO GOLDFIELD

Irving G. Lewis, who was in charge of most of the publicity work for the Democratic state central committee during the late campaign in Nevada, in all probability will secure a position with one of the Goldfield daily newspapers and will begin his work early the coming year. Lewis is no longer connected with the state central committee, all correspondence and publicity work now being in charge of the secretary, A. B. Gray.

WEST END MINE WORKING HUGE BODY OF ORE

J. F. Haley, state bullion and tax collector, W. M. Gotwaldt, of the Goldfield News, and a Bonanza representative, under the guidance of Foreman Robert Christian, were taken through the workings of the West End mine yesterday and shown the big bodies of ore being mined. This is Mr. Haley's first visit to one of the Tonopah mines and he expressed himself as being greatly astonished at the bodies of ore disclosed.

In the drift on the first level the ore is rapidly becoming oxidized in character and the values are increasing. When this body of ore was first encountered the values averaged about $10 a ton, but now it will return $50 a ton. At the point now reached they are running along with the ledge and have not as yet encountered the foot or hanging wall. The ledge has been opened up for a distance of 127 feet and of this the last thirty feet is of a good milling grade. In a few days stoping will be started to connect with the intermediate drift.

In the intermediate drift they have two machines working taking out the shipping ore. The ledge here still retains its richness and is about four feet in width.

On the bottom level they are stoping in the No. 3 raise, where they have cut into a big ledge which appears to be getting richer as they proceed. A drift has been started at a point twenty-five feet east of the shaft that will cut the big ledge after traversing fifty feet and then stoping will be commenced.

The mine has never looked better during its history and at the present time has a number of huge ore bodies blocked out for future work. The company is also doing a little development work. It is expected that they will soon sink another hundred feet and from that level drift until the big ledge is encountered and then work up to the 400-foot level.

At the opening of the bazaar there will be a short program, as follows:
